"Joe motivates teens and shares a truth – if they want control of their lives, they must take responsibility for themselves. He spoke to several of my VERY unmotivated students and several others who are struggling to find their place in life. He definitely had an impact on them and they remember it a month or more later. This program should be heard by parents and students together."

Mary Jane Gates, M.Ed. – Teacher, Walton High School; Educational Consultant

“Without question, you are making an impact everywhere your message is heard.”

Eric Chester, CSP, CPAE - Founder & President, Generation Why, Inc.

“Over the last 15 years Joe has supported the Prevention/Intervention Center’s efforts working with Cobb County Schools in various capacities. He has facilitated various pilot programs in the county’s schools, has spoken numerous times to the students, teachers, parents, school personnel and school administrators. We constantly receive positive feedback from Joe’s participation, presentations and programs.”

Jeff Inman - Director, Prevention/Intervention Center of Cobb County Schools

“Joe is an outstanding individual who has provided quality programming for the Cobb County YMCA. He has been selected by our YMCA as a leader in the community and has been asked to serve as a member of our Cobb YMCA Strategic Planning Forum. Maureen Nipaver – Associate Executive Director
YMCA of Cobb County

“Because of your efforts, our students will be more successful academically, plan their careers more wisely, and contribute more successfully to the next century.”

Wayne Clough, President - Georgia Institute of Technology

“Your presentation was well received and very meaningful to the audience. This comment by one student sums up your impact

‘Joe Gandolfo was impressive; he confirmed the need to work hard for what one wants out of life and that one has to take risks to achieve.’ Thanks again for sharing your experience and expertise with our students.”

Anne C. Richards, Ed.D., Professor - University of West Georgia

“Joe Gandolfo is the real deal! From the time he steps in front of a roomful of students, they just know that he knows and understands them and the challenges they face. He speaks from his heart and gets in their heads. I know because my daughter has been one of Joe’s audience members – and she loved him. I highly recommend Joe as one of the premier youth speakers in America because I know him to be a professional who cares, a professional who prepares and a professional who delivers.”

Phillip Van Hooser, MBA, CSP - Keynote Speaker and Author
